

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF IDAHO
PUBLISHES ONLINE VOTERS' GUIDE
FOR MAY 15 PRIMARY ELECTION

To assist Idaho voters as they go to the polls on May 15 for the primary election, the League of Women Voters of Idaho (LWVID) has published an online Voters' Guide, www.VOTE411.org, that features complete information about candidates for the state wide offices, congressional races.

The VOTE411.org online guide allows voters to access personalized ballot information simply by entering a street address, and then clicking "Show My Races." The guide contains candidate responses to questions posed by LWVID. Voters will also be able to find in-depth information about voter registration, voting requirements and rules, candidate forums and debates, and poll locations. LWVID is bringing this digital platform to Idaho voters across the state for the first time this year.

"We hope Idaho voters will use this Voters' Guide to help make informed choices as they vote on May 15," said Susan Ripley, president of the League of Women Voters of Idaho. "We are pleased to be able to provide this information and thank the candidates for their willingness to participate in the guide. We hope to expand to include more local races in the future."
